Should I Be Doing That?

For years, it has been recommended that first class mail was the best way to get your return to the IRS. Times have changed though, and now we wholeheartedly endorse electronic filing. Last year more than 60 million taxpayers filed their return electronically.

Electronic filing is now the preferred method of filing since it ensures that your return won't get lost in the mail. Everyone that files electronically receives acknowledgement from the IRS that the return was received. Another advantage for electronic filing is that you should get your refund a few weeks sooner than by the traditional mail method.

DeBenedetti & Co., PC is dedicated to keeping up with the newest technology, and offers free electronic filing to all clients. Furthermore, we can also offer to email you your return as a PDF file. This can come in very handy if you ever need to email your tax return to your mortgage broker or banker should you decide to purchase a new home or refinance your existing home.

If you have any questions regarding electronic filing or would like to know what you can do to reduce your taxes please give me a call and we can discuss your personal tax situation.
